

PCIC

Pepsi Cans International Club

Autumn 2006 News

17 years ago, when I started collecting cans, internet was not available to common people. Writing a list, sent with a common letter, waiting for an answer and then trade, took months, while with emails now could be a matter of hours. So during the time I was able to increase my collection especially thanks to internet and emails.

Unfortunately this media, so fast, so spread around the globe, was not able to grow the collection and trading spirit. As too often is happening in our society, at the end it became a way to make money, selling even empty cans.

The original idea of PCIC was to fight a battle to bring collecting back to its original spirit, bringing collectors together, helping each other. But everyday I realize there are fewer collectors and more sellers, too often unscrupulous. It's simply a pity.

Please help us to introduce PCIC to as many friends as you can (www.geocities.com/chris_cavaletti/PCIC.html): it's free of charge, and could give back lots of fun.

CHINESE CANNING LOCATIONS

How to understand the canning location of a Chinese can if you don't know Chinese?

Simple: try to read what's readable in the ingredients.

Ok, and what's that?

The area-code of the phone number!

Here's a list of known canning locations:

- Beijing (area code 010)
- Guangzhou (area code 020)
- Shanghai (area code 021)
- Shenyang (area code 024)
- Shenzen (area code 0755)
- Jinxian (area code 0791)

If you got a can with a different area-code, just mail me (Chris) a picture of the ingredients side and I'll try to help.
